Saša Stanišić

Saša Stanišić was born 1978 in Višegrad (Yugoslavia); since 1992 he is living in Germany. His short stories and novels (Vor dem Fest, Herkunft a.o.) have been translated into more than 30 languages and have received countless awards, most notably the German Book Prize in 2019. Currently, he lives in Hamburg - and so does his son Nikolai, who helped him a lot with this book.

Katja Spitzer

Katja Spitzer studied art history and history in Halle and illustration in Leipzig and in Luzern (Switzerland). Today she lives in Berlin, creating illustrations for books and teaching children and adults how to draw. Recent publication in English language: Hair – From Moptops to Mohicans, Afros to Cornrows (Prestel).

Hey, Hey, Hey, Taxi! 2

Every evening, Saša Stanišić and his son Nikolai invent new stories in which you can experience the craziest adventures involving the craziest taxis: Favourite taxi driver Odjo Odjo steps on the gas during a fast-paced chase, after all, a cockatoo has to be saved! The thieving dwarf called Fieberthermometer is in trouble, so it's a good thing that we're sitting on a taxi kite and can help him! And Müggi the mosquito wants to be a great painter - or maybe she already is?

Despite all the fun, the important questions of life are not neglected: What are friends for? Why don't you have to be like everyone else? And why is it great to just be really lazy?

The taxi is back - with new fantastic stories, once again brightly illustrated by Katja Spitzer. And because Nikolai has grown a little older in the meantime, this volume is for all children aged 6 and over.

Hey, Hey, Hey, Taxi!

»Hurray for boisterous, joyful storytelling! And cheers to imagination!«

NIELS BEINTKER, BAYERISCHER RUNDFUNK

For a child, a taxi is a magic vehicle. A four-wheeled witches' broom. As you enter it, a taxi can bring you anywhere you want to. But what if its magic was even bigger? What if taxis would allure stories, fantastic and absurd stories, funny stories full of people and animals and giants and a pirate captain with four pirate captain hats? What if taxis were gateways for the fantasy of children?

This is exactly that kind of book: A book, in which you enter a taxi and with it a strange world, one of a kind. These journeys lead in all directions, to a place next door as well as through time and space. But in the end they always lead back home—back to the child.

Saša Stanišić wrote his first children's book—together with his son! Together they came up with the wildest, craziest, sparkliest adventures one can encounter in a taxi. With a passion for detail, illustrator Katja Spitzer brought those ideas and its creatures to life.

»Stanišić's imagination, also linguistically overflowing, overblossoming, overglowing, is limitless.«

STEFAN GRUND, WELT

»What a great pleasure!«

ANJA WASSERBÄCH, STUTTGARTER ZEITUNG

»Almost every story amazes, even the most hardened. But the very best thing—even for the narrator—is always the return home to the child. In this respect, Hey, Hey, Taxi! is a great declaration of love.«

Ringo and the Vampire Rabbits

»A wonderful new voice in children's literature. Surprising, elegant and with a great and unique sense of humor.«

SALAH NAOURA

»Ringo rocks.«

HALINA KIRSCHNER

Welcome to the castle in the Carpathian Mountains! This is where Mr. Constantin lives with his butler, the greyhound Ringo. Ringo serves his master the best scones in the morning and the most delicious lasagna in the evening. But one day, Mr. Constantin receives a strange gift: a rabbit named Moffat. Moffat is small, cute and fluffy, and Mr. Constantin seems to only have eyes for him. But one night Ringo makes a scary discovery and suspects: Moffat is a cunning little fellow.

A funny scary story, lovingly told and illustrated by Katja Spitzer.

»Wonderfully clear, colourful and child-friendly illustrations.«

Ringo and the Vampire Rabbits

Reading Sample

One fine day, the doorbell rang. This rarely happened, because the area was lonely and the castle difficult to reach. It was the postman, holding a small package with holes in it.

»I don't know what's in there,« Mr Constantin said, rubbing his hands together excitedly. Ringo and Mr Constantin bent over the parcel and opened the lid together. A tiny nose with whiskers and a long, fluffy ear peeked out. Mr Constantin leapt into the air in rapture. Ringo had never seen his master like this. Ringo detected a sickening smell. His hunting instinct awoke and he growled dangerously, which was not at all like a fine butler. Mr. Constantin gave Ringo a nasty look and pulled this fluffy thing out of the box.

A creature with white fur and a black spot over its eye emerged.

»It's a rabbit, Ringo,« said Mr Constantin.

Turnips and fireworks

Of course: When the old year is as worn out as Bosco's super-wolly pyjamas, a new one is needed. And the Turnip family has a tried and tested ritual for the turn of the year: They saddle up Olga the donkey and wander through the night while bawling out songs. The smell of flares and rockets is already tingling in their stomachs. First, they play a round of Ballalala and throw away everything that absolutely has to stay in the old year. Then it's off to the forest to the elder witches, where they bury biscuits in the night and light a glow.

A New Year's Eve for everyone who has ever been four years old - drawn by Tine Schulz. Great fun with the Turnip-family and a real rocket of a book.

After Sleeping like Turnips (Schlafen wie die Rüben) and Bosco Turnip races through the year (Bosco Rübe rast durchs Jahr) this is the third part of the series about the Turnip family.

Bosco Turnip Races Through the Year

»Literature is literature, and when it is a children's book, it is even more so.
 Because we were all children once.«

DITA ZIPFEL

Birthday surely is the best day of the year. And Bosco Turnip is looking forward to being four years old like crazy. Until then, a lot will happen in Bosco's life, because Bosco is a wild little guy, full of ideas, nonsense and energy. He can be a baby duck and also a tiger. He bites the table with anger and flies to the moon with happiness. So, there's a lot to tell.

After Sleeping like Turnips (Schlafen wie die Rüben), Tine Schulz, Dita Zipfel and Finn-Ole Heinrich continue to tinker with the cosmos of the Turnip family. This time we accompany Bosco Turnip, the smallest of the family, throughout the year. The best stories of an entire Turnip year take off in the kitchen or in the kindergarten, float through the garden, the streets and fly into space and back.

Sleeping like Turnips

»... a truly amazing book ...«

MARIJA BAKKER, DEUTSCHLANDFUNK

Come and enter the Turnip's cave, where the Turnip family every night tries to kip, doze off, slide into beddybies. But before they can sleep, there is a hundred little things to be taken care of—and all of which are not supposed to be mixed up! So it's kind of a crazy adventure before everyone can finally be off to la-la land.

Finn-Ole Heinrich and Dita Zipfel (both winners of the German Youth Literature Award in 2014 respectively 2020) wrote a funny lullaby-poem, that is at first all mixed up and needs some good shaking to finally calm down.

Most recently, she illustrated »Trieste Centrale« by Jaroslav Rudiš.

Wild bike ride with Velociraptor

»Halina Kirschner's illustrations are striking, dynamic and colourful, they have charm and character.«

KATJA SPITZER

Wait a minute - velociraptors? Those were very fast dinos, weren't they? The narrator, a writer with a rusty talent for storytelling and a great passion for bicycles, is astonished when suddenly such a feathered prehistoric reptile stands in front of him. The quick-witted and curious Velociraptor wants to become even faster: She wants to learn how to ride a bike from him.

And so the two begin a journey in 26 chapters, and along the way learn the most important terms, rules and tips about cycling. Finally, the Ciraaptor feels so well prepared that she can even compete in a big bike race - will she win it? In any case, the author has experienced many new adventures and gained a real friend - probably the first velociraptor who really deserves this name.

A bike book for all novice riders aged 4 and up, whether animal or human. Humorously written by youth literature award winner and bike freak Nils Mohl, racily illustrated by Halina Kirschner.

Tractor's Coming, Too!

CHRISTIAN STAAS, DIE ZEIT

What are you saying? The tractor is not supposed to come along? I can hardly understand why we will be moving from the countryside into the city, but okay, if you wish to do so ... But I really cannot see why the tractor should not come along. You might not know, but there are so many things to do for a tractor in town. It can help when we go shopping and you need more than the usual for example. Or when there is a traffic jam on the motorway, the tractor can easily make way, which will be much better than to wait behind other small cars. I tell you: Either the tractor's coming too or I stay!

Finn-Ole Heinrich and Dita Zipfel have written an anarchic, wild and fearless book for children. Even grown-ups will ask themselves after reading the book how they could survive without a tractor up to now. The book has been illustrated by newcomer Halina Kirschner from Leipzig who is a genius when it comes to screen-print-optic.

»Adorably persistent and eloquent as rarely in a picture book. [...] The book is pure tractor poetry, it praises the tractor, a passionate as well as detailed homage to this epitome of strength and class, of endurance and versatility. [...] One wants to read it immediately out loud, so defiant and beautiful is the rhythm.«

Her autobiographical book »Nils« recently received a lot of attention. www.melaniegaranin.com

The Hawk and the Rooster

»You simply have to fall in love with this book.«

ANJA WASSERBAECH, STUTTGARTER ZEITUNG

Waaaaahh?! Big commotion in the henhouse! A hawk! Danger! And what does the rooster do? He is helping the bird of prey friendly out of the hatch and looks after him dreamily?

Well, what's going on here? The hawk and the rooster are actually enemies by nature, everyone knows that. Yes, normally they are—but the two have discovered that they really like each other. And maybe even a little bit more.

With »Der Habicht und der Hahn« (»The Hawk and the Rooster«), Käptn Peng has written one of the best children's songs ever: clever, witty, concise, rhythmic, beautiful, catchy and sophisticated. Illustrator Melanie Garanin has turned the song into an enchanting picture book in which even young children can discover that not everything always has to go according to the old rules. And everyone is allowed to like, love and be what he or she wants.

An encouragement to accept your feelings. Proof that beautiful things can be created together. And an appeal to the unconditional truth of love.

»The artistic expression is impressive. The pages, some of which are wild and thoroughly unconventional, give tremendous depth to the few lines of text and garnish with detail and pictorial vehemence. A strong title, with a speaking cover, that wonderfully realises the theme of multi-form love.«
